

My first CRM

You have heard about CRM software applications that manage, plan and maintain customer relationships.

Need to organize and centralize all your information relating to contacts, accounts, leads, sales opportunities and quotes?

Want to know which actions have been taken, or are due to be taken in order to convert potential customers into quotes, and quotes into sales?

Are you sure Outlook and loose Excel sheets are the best solution to organize your information?

But what options do I have? I don't want to invest on something that I will not be able to get the full potential out of, equally I don't want to start anymore internal projects...
